Dear Guests,

We are pleased to welcome You to Our Restaurant.
Below we present Our culinary encyclopedia with issues that accompany Us every day in Our kitchen.

Vegetarian dishes

Spicy dishes

- Sous - vide - is a technique of cooking meat, fish and other food products, previously sealed tightly (vacuum) in a plastic bag in a water or steam bath (in the oven) at a relatively low temperature, which never exceeds 100°C (or even 90°C). The most important advantage of this method is the retention of the most valuable vitamins and food ingredients in the finished products.
- Demi glace - one of the basic sauces, which was described at the turn of the 17th and 19th centuries by the outstanding French chef Marie-Antoine Careme. Demi glace is a reduced, thick broth made from baked beef or veal bones.
- Chorizo - chorizo is a sausage made from pork, which is one of the hallmarks of Spanish cuisine. Although there are different varieties, an indispensable element that must appear in the traditional recipe is ground, smoked and then dried pimenton pepper. It's responsible not only for the characteristic taste and aroma of chorizo sausage, but also for its reddish color. Additionally, pepper, salt and garlic are used in this famous sausage production. Herbal accents, such as oregano, are also welcome.
